This A.M. Operative started for the Bonnie Burn Sanitarium at Scott Pines outside of Plainfield, N.J. to interview a Mr. Joe Revolinsky, who at present is confined to this tubercular hospital. He is the man we have some information about and who was an interpreter for a Mrs. Pertulous who lived in a house near Mrs. Gibson and who had 7 pigs and a sow stolen. She was told by one of her neighbors that the pigs were taken to the Gibson place. Mr. Revolinsky went to the Gibson farm to act as an interpreter and questioned Mrs. Gibson about the matter. Mrs. Gibson denied she had the pigs and would not discuss it and ordered them off her farm. Mr. Revolinsky learned that Mrs. Pertulous was arrested for beating one of her cows but knew nothing further about that. He further stated that he does not know anything more about the Gibson woman.

Operative asked him about Stumpy Gillin's place and he stated that he knew the people who frequented the place. I showed him the picture I had with me and he stated that he seems to remember the face and thinks this woman was known as "May Ray" around Gillin's. He said that Gillin always had 7 or 8 women around his place and that it was known as a disorderly resort. He remembered the Bicycle Races which were held at South River about the time of 1900 and that he trained two girls for the races that the General Cigar Co. of Somerset St. held. The names of the girls were May Hicky and Lizzy Scott. He gave me the name of S. Casey, who conducts a saloon at Alexander & French Sts. who might know where Lizzy Scott could be found.

Operative then returned to New Brunswick and went to the General Cigar Co. and interviewed the Superintendent who stated that they have no records as far back as 1900, but that there are still some
